NOTES ABOUT TOWN.

The Baptist church is receiving a thorough overhauling inside and out.

Several of the stone cross-walks have been cleaned off to the great gratification of pedestrians. Now clean off the rest.

Rev. M. D. Church, of Montclair, will preach in the Park M. E. church, Sunday, June 27th, both morning and evening.

Gospel Temperance Union Meeting on Sunday 27th, at Lecture Room of the Baptist church, at 4 P. M. The subject of Sunday Law Violation will also be considered.

The Public School Exhibition in Brookdale district will be repeated on Tuesday evening next, on account of the rain last week, which prevented many from attending.

At this busy season of canning, preserving and pickling, the advertisement of Miss E. McComb, in another column, is timely. Housekeepers who desire practical aid in that line will do well to make a note of it.

Mr. William Richards has returned from an extended trip through Sonora, Mexico. He did not make the personal acquaintance of Geronimo, fortunately, but he has brought home a photograph of that notorious savage and a more villainous looking specimen of humanity can scarcely be imagined.

It seems as though some brutes about here have more sense than their human fellow inhabitants. A horse and a mule were observed doing their best yesterday morning to mow off the grass on the old hotel property. Some human doubtless soon interrupted the good work.

Early Closing.

We, the undersigned merchants and business men of the town of Bloomfield, believing that our employees in asking for less hours of labor are entitled to be heard, and wishing to assist them as far as the early closing of our establishment is concerned, do hereby agree to close our several places of business at 8.00 P. M. with the exception of Saturday evening of each week. On and after Monday June 28th, 1886.

Fireworks for the Fourth.

To the Citizens:
So far about $40 has been raised for the public display of fireworks to be given from the Bell Tower on the night of July 5th.

More money is needed and the citizens who have not already subscribed and desire to do so, are requested to send in their subscriptions to Mr. J. P. Scherff as early as possible.

Earnest efforts are being made to give the townspeople a thoroughly good display of fireworks, such as has not been seen in the town for years, and a few more subscriptions from public spirited citizens will provide the necessary means.

HOWARD B. DAVIS.

Hope Sunday-school!

The Anniversary exercises of Hope Sunday-school were held on Sunday afternoon last. The platform, desk of the Superintendent, and organ, were handsomely decorated with flowers. "Faith" was the theme of the exercises of the children.

A large cross with the word "Faith" in white flowers stood upon one side the desk; while an anchor of white daisies was placed upon the other. The recitations were so arranged as to describe the nature of faith, with illustrations from the Old and New Testaments.

An address followed by Dr. Lockwood upon the same subject—with many apt illustrations well-suited to the audience and the occasion. The report of the Superintendent showed the encouraging state of the finances of the school, the good attendance, and apparent good result of the work.

During the year, a new roof has been placed upon the building, the whole interior renovated and painted, and the house put in thorough good order.

The average attendance the past year was 83. Fourteen books were distributed to those who had brought new scholars to the school. About $50 has been contributed to charitable and missionary work.

A large number of friends of the school were in attendance, and the room was well filled.

The Orphan's Gala Day.

PICNIC AT WEAVERS GROVE, THURSDAY, JUNE 17TH.

In behalf of the Board of Managers of the Bloomfield Orphan Asylum Society I tender their most grateful thanks to the patrons of Bloomfield for their generous supply of "good things" so necessary for the full enjoyment and pleasure of the "little ones" who look upon their festival at Bloomfield as the brightest spot in their lives.

It is almost needless to say that the people of Bloomfield showed no lack in their donations, as their liberality has become a proverb. We can say that this year they excelled every other year in their generous interest for the Orphans.

It seems as if each household has this annual visit of the children at heart, as much as those who take upon themselves the burden of the labor.

The many loving hearts, and willing hands, spread the tables with all the goodies, decking each plate with those speaking paintings, and fragrant laden flowers which God gives so generously in the rosy month of June. Large bouquets adorned the centre of the tables.

One dainty after another was added (the tables fairly groaned under the sweetness) until the picture baffled description, for beauty and comfort. As one remarked, "I never saw so beautiful a sight, wish we had an amateur photographer, it is worthy of a picture," and another said, "I have never attended a picnic before, I think this must be a model one."

I cannot forbear repeating that which has been said before, that to the perfect unity and hearty co-operation of the committee is due the perfect success of the undertaking, nor could the arrangements be so complete, without their unity of spirit, and intelligent suggestions put in action. As I looked upon their nimble and busy fingers at work which seemed as one, my heart repeated, "Behold how good, and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity," and I praised Him from whom all blessings flow.

The pleasure was complete when the children, seventy in number, took their places at the tables, and with bowed heads invoked His blessing upon the bounty spread before them. It seemed very sacred from their pure young hearts and lips.

Although for the first time we were treated to a shower, the ample pavilion protected us from getting wet. When the sun came out so bright and cherry we forgot the clouds which cast a little shadow upon the pleasures of the day.

As the children passed out of the pavilion to the boat, a package of French candy and mottoes was given to each one; the eager look of curiosity on the children's faces and then the bright smile of happiness which followed, would have more than pleased the generous friend (if he could have been there, to have seen them) for his thoughtfulness. Surely "it is more blessed to give than receive." As the boat, with its comfortable awnings, filled with happy faced children, their attendants, and Newark ladies, glided away the sun shone out bright and clear, as if glad to add its share toward making the day's pleasure a success, and a happy memory.

To Mr. Wm. H. Kellogg, Supt. of the Morris Canal Co., we are indebted for the comfortable transportation of the children; he has proved a faithful friend to the children from the beginning of this treat. We feel we owe everything to his kindness.

The Newark City Ice Co., were most kind in supplying an abundance of ice.

The children's friend, Wm. Baldwin, Newark Express, added his helping hand to the cause in various ways of assistance.

Through the influence of the teachers of Berkeley School we were the recipients of a large basket of beautifully arranged bouquets.

It adds fresh pleasure to the work, when we see children of tender impressionable years trained to think and work for others, especially for those, "who are always with us," who are so dependent upon the charity of the world for help in their helplessness. With this training in school the rising generation will be enabled to trace the principles of unselfishness in their nature to a wise suggestion of thoughtful teachers.

So the good work goes on, each year with its doubts brushed away by friendship's kindly hand, until it has ceased to be a care, but an anticipated pleasure.

It seems as if the Elder Brother's voice is heard saying, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me."

Mrs. R. N. DODD,
Chairman of the Com.
Miss FANNY C. CARL, Secretary.

County Notes.

ORANGE.

A large and fashionable congregation gathered at St. Mark's church at 4.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, to witness the marriage of Miss Harriet Tillinghast, daughter of Mrs. Philip Tillinghast and Mr. John P. Gillis, of New York. The Rev. Bishop Falkner, rector of the church, officiated, the full Episcopal service being read. The bride was unattended, and wore a plain, but pretty toilet of surah silk and Spanish lace and carried a bouquet of white roses. Mr. Richard Pannock acted as best man, and the ushers were: Col. Lamont, Dr. Mott, Mr. Baird and Mr. Westervelt, of New York, and Messrs. Heckscher and Tillinghast, of Orange. The chancel of the church was elegantly decorated with ferns and cut flowers, while the altar rail was draped with festoons of smilax caught with bunches of roses and mignonette. A reception followed the ceremony at the residence of the bride on Northfield avenue.

EAST ORANGE.

A driving accident that may result fatally to one of the party occurred at Brick Church about 5.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. An English dog cart drawn by a tandem, containing Messrs. Richard and Joel F. Freeman, of Munn avenue and Central avenue, with a friend, and the footman, was being driven rapidly down Main Street, and as the horses turned into Prospect street the shafts broke. The cart pitched forward, throwing its occupants out. Mr. Richard Freeman fell almost under the heels of the wheel horse, but the animal remained perfectly quiet, and he escaped with a few scratches. The footman, however, after being thrown out, caught the lead horse, which was making frantic efforts to break away, and becoming entangled in the harness was severely injured. He was taken into the office of Dr. Alfred Walton, where it was found that he had sustained severe scalp wounds, and his spine is also believed to have been injured. His condition this morning is reported serious. The other occupants of the cart escaped with torn clothes and bruises.

A very successful industrial exhibition was given at the Eastern District School, on Saturday afternoon. It was the first given by an Essex county public school, and among the 251 persons outside of scholars of the school who were present during the afternoon, were County Superintendent Davis, Principal Taylor of Newark; Principal Maxwell, of South Orange; Mr. Pennoyer, of the Ashland School, and many public and private school teachers. The work of the scholars of each class was displayed in their own class room. Upon the first floor were the primary rooms, and as the visitors ascended to the second and third floors the interest in the exhibit increased. In the youngest class rooms were exhibited, besides fancy and industrial work, examples of work in the kindergarten system. The exhibits in the grammar school were all interesting, consisting of blackboard work in design and object drawings, writing, besides industrial work by the boys, fancy work by the girls, etc. Naturally, the exhibit of the higher department was of the most interest, and the display made by them was very fine. Included in this display was an exhibit of the woods of Essex county, consisting of forty-five varieties, showing the bark, the grain polished and unpainted, and the leaves of each variety.

The meeting at the office of Mr. Richard Coyne Tuesday evening for the purpose of starting the organization of a company of the National Guard to be attached to the Third Battalion of Orange, was attended by about thirty young men who came prepared to sign the roll, but none of the projectors of the company or those who signed the call for the meeting, were present. Mayor Snyder was present, but did not care to assume the responsibility of calling the meeting to order, and so nothing whatever was done. There is considerable talk about the failure of the meeting in both Orange and East Orange Tuesday morning, and it is alleged that the trouble all arose from the misplaced enthusiasm and interference of some of the Orange military men. It is now possible that the company from South Orange that have already sent in an application for acceptance, with over ninety names, will secure the place as Company C of the Third Battalion.

CALDWELL.

The old cannon given to Caldwell by a brother of Commodore Deratur in 1804, and which was stored away in the State Arsenal at Trenton since 1864, has been returned to the Township Committee of Caldwell. They in turn have given the six-pounder to Bartlett Post, G. A. R., of that town, which has become its custodian for all time. On the Fourth the cannon will be forth salutes enough to make up for its long enforced silence in the arsenal.

Prohibition Brie-a-Brac.

Prohibitionist Cator, in the Newark Convention.

A party that says it is right to sell at all cannot be trusted to enforce the liquor laws. The liquor traffic is the crime of crimes. Every Common Council or Excise Board that licenses this traffic is equally guilty with the bar-tender. Every man who votes the ticket of a party that supports the liquor traffic is on a par with the bar-tender. Every man who, against the dictates of his conscience, votes either the Republican or the Democratic ticket, is, in fact, a bar-tender, with his sleeves rolled up, dishing out liquid damnation to his fellow-men. There is only one door by which we can enter to destroy the liquor traffic, and that is prohibition. If any man attempts to climb up by another way, he is a thief and a robber.

Alderman Cator to a Jersey City reporter.

Personally, I am a Prohibitionist, and I believe that prohibition is the only true solution to the liquor question. However, that don't seem to be practicable here in Jersey City at the present time, but the next best thing is to reduce the number of saloons. Eleven or twelve hundred saloons in a town like this are too many. The Board of Aldermen have the power to license, regulate and prohibit the sale of liquor in Jersey City. My plan would be to pass an ordinance, allowing one saloon to every thousand inhabitants, by districts, and then put up the licenses at public auction. In this way there would be about 155 saloons in the city, and the revenue derived would amount to about $500,000 a year.

From the Newark Convention Platform.

That it is good law, reason and logic, that all who aid, abet, procure, hire, counsel, or in any way assist in the commission of a crime, are guilty of the crime though not present at the commission thereof, and therefore we affirm that all who license, or in any way favor the continuance of this traffic, and all Legislatures which license, and all political parties which favor license, and all men who vote for parties which license, or for parties which will not declare for prohibition (where there is a Prohibition party) do make themselves accessory to the liquor crime and "equally guilty" with the man who carries on the traffic.

Fragment from an Old Poet.

So in the Libyan tale it is told
That once an eagle, stricken with a dart,
Said, when he saw the fashion of the shaft,
"With our own feathers, not by other's hands,
Are we now smitten."
